DRIVERS — OR DRIVEN?

We still have to learn how to live with the automobile. Both as pedestrians and drivers, we are much at the mercy of other drivers. At the wheel we are also at the mercy of ourselves, when our driving skill is inadequate. And in a sense, we are at the mercy of the machine.

For one thing, many modern motor cars can go faster than many modern drivers can think — or act. "Canonball" Baker, professional record-smasher, who has driven over three million miles often at forced speeds and who has had only one accident, and that when his own car was standing still, says: "The average man's reflexes are not fast enough to handle the top speeds of today's automobiles."

Each driver has a "safe" speed. It is a balance of his personal reflexes against his speed. It is a speed that is right for him, given his physiological and mental make-up. For some exceptional drivers this "safe speed" may be high, but for many it is certainly not more than 40 to 45 miles an hour.

But the campaign for highway safety — while it focuses chiefly on eliminating auto deaths and maimings, as patently it ought to — has other aspects. For instance, bad conduct on the highways can pump up the blood pressure, perhaps can upset the digestion and with it one's peace of mind.

Here is a driver — and where not is he? — who feels that the car ahead, moving a little slower than his own, must be passed at all costs; that the light must be beaten, that any other driver on the road who seems to violate the rules or infringes on his pride, must be disciplined with inner anger and perhaps with downright discourtesy and cursing. Of course he may cause no accident. He may leave the death and injury toll where he found it. But the resultant turmoil has a price — and he will pay it. In frayed nerves, in an overworked heart.

Yes, we must not only make the highways safe for others, but we must also make them safe for ourselves. We must learn how to drive with serenity. Otherwise we are not driving a car. It is driving us.

LET THEM PASS

"When a car is passing you, take your foot off the gas. That doubles his speed and gets him past quicker." This suggestion was made in a letter to the editor of the Chico Record and it appealed to him to make the following comment, which is well worth passing on.

"Many of the worst accidents have come from drivers making it harder for cars behind to pass them, instead of making it easier.

Often the situation develops into a race, with both cars going faster and faster. Then tragedy is imminent at a turn, the approach of a steep hill ahead — and possibly cars coming up.

It used to be regarded in the early days of motoring, as legitimate sport to try and beat the other car. That notion has largely vanished, since almost every car now will go faster than anybody has any business going and everybody knows it. If the fellow behind is a speed fiend, the sooner he passes the better for you — or.

BRIGHTER POST OFFICES

It is related of the famous actor, Sir Henry Irving, that he once went into a post office in Britain to buy a penny stamp, and on the assistant's producing a large sheet of stamps, Irving pointed solemnly to the middle of it, and said, "I'll have that one please."

He may not have intended the joke to convey a lesson but it did; for it emphasised the fact that, although it holds a monopoly, the British post office stands in nearly the same relation to a customer as an ordinary store. That is to say, the same amenities, the same consideration for his comfort, his feelings should be extended to him in the former than he gets in the latter.

But it was long before the post office took the lesson to heart: it remained gloomy, unattractive and devoid of the chairs and tables that would have added so much to the comfort, and have facilitated the business of its clientele; post offices were crosses hard to be borne; pencils were chains of office, but knew not how to make their mark; and against all innovation in these matters the Royal Mail was proof.

The last few years however have seen a great improvement; and in a speech, which he made recently, Sir Walter Womersley, Assistant Postmaster General, drew attention to this with pardonable pride. He pointed out that a "Brighter Post Office" campaign has resulted in comfortably furnished offices, supplied with pleasant inquiry bureaux, and that even the pens may reasonably be described now as "de luxe."

KEEP CANADA BRITISH

Canada has within its borders, unfortunately, many persons, who as shown by their ideas, have no right to be here. They have taken the good we have to offer, but they have not become one of us. It can never be to them "our country"; and they should get out.

As a glaring instance there are those who write all sorts of uncalled for trash in letters to American periodicals. Here is one by a Vancouver man, in Liberty: "How about letting England look after her own affairs, also. I'm just a self-respecting Canadian who hates like the devil to see his country retrogress to infidelity as she is slowly doing under the economic slavery foisted on us by this same 'Mother Country'."

This is a British Dominion and the sooner that this fact is impressed upon such shrunken the better it will be for Canada and Canadians. It is a heritage handed to us by British forefathers as a part of the British Empire and no sort of self-

NEW CONSERVATIVE LEADER

Dr. Robert Manion of Fort William, the new Conservative leader, is an aggressive opponent and a man of strong convictions. Geographically, he is fortunately situated with a view that can embrace the agricultural west and the industrial east. This is an advantage which not all leaders have enjoyed.

In succeeding Hon. R. B. Bennett, Mr. Manion is assuming a difficult task; but he has much of the determination and forcefulness of the former leader. He is credited with being more advanced than the reactionary elements of the party approve but on the other hand, his progressive outlook may recommend him to others outside the party, and to the younger element of Conservatives that is coming up.

One of the most vexatious problems which any federal party has to face is the necessity of bringing the British Constitution up-to-date, particularly in the matter of provincial federal relations. Quebec has been opposed to change, and has been a factor in delaying action. But with Premier Duplessis strongly behind Mr. Manion, it is possible that Quebec may be more amenable to change.

Those who saw merit in Hon. H. H. Stevens reconstruction platform, are pleased with the fact that Dr. Manion had the endorsement of Mr. Stevens. They have hope that some of Mr. Stevens' ideas may be injected into Dr. Manion's program.

Little of radicalism was apparent in the policy as evolving from convention deliberations. No new lead was given in respect to the current problems of the Dominion. But further developments may come as elections roll round.

HIS CREED

By Sir Josiah Stamp.

I suspect easy solutions and very pleasant ones. Only very occasionally will it be possible to put in shorter hours and higher wages, lower taxes and balance budgets, all together at one moment I do not think France and New Zealand have hit that occasion.

I suspect good bargains between nations or classes — there are usually boomerangs. In a lasting bargain both sides gain equally.

I suspect an immediate personal interest. For even a sixpence held near the eye will blot out the Bank of England.

I suspect any solution that does not stand an ethical test. The sermon on the Mount is perhaps too fine a sieve for today, but the decalogue is a mesh that can do thorough work. That at least we have not outgrown in standard. Do not think that education weans you from the spiritual law, either.

I suspect any solution in which one factor is modified and the others are all assumed, to remain the same. Only in Wall street booms is each man a millionaire if he sells out, on the assumption that none of the others do so at the same time.

I suspect any method of getting the best of two worlds at the price of one.

I suspect every solution that carries over nothing from the past, just as I suspect every one that merely smuggles down in the old way.

This Week's Poem

FRIENDS LIKE YOU

(By C. Adelle Skov)

This world is well worth living in
When I have friends like you,
Who don't expect perfection
In things I say or do;
Who look beyond the bright veneer,
Or through the roughened crust
To see the good that's shining clear
In all the human dust.

This world is well worth living in
When someone sits with care
The grain and chaff in each life's bin,
And stores what's worthy there;
Who bids the winds of kindness blow
The chaff in discards slough;
It fills all earth with warmth and glow
When I have friends like you.

determination and like Tommyrot can after that moral fact. Because the British people in Canada have pursued a friendly policy — which has really been a meek and effete policy — is no reason why Canada should passively become a traitor to the principles upon which she was founded.

In the hands of the leaders of political thought in Canada lies to a large extent the fostering of an Empire spirit — an allegiance which brooks no doubt that this is a British country. In no other way than by strong and definite leadership in this regard can the conglomerate of nationalities which has been allowed to enjoy the benefits of this free Dominion be welded into a loyal and progressive whole.

Not only is the British connection morally right, it is the best from every angle of approach and most of all from the selfish angle, which is undoubtedly most important to such persons as the one who probably found Canadian journals unwilling to publish his treason.

SHOWER IN HONOR OF
MR. L. L. MONTGOMERY

Honour, July 30.—The shower held in the hall on Thursday in honor of Mrs. Ivan L. Montgomery was a splendid success. Thirty-four friends and relatives gathered to do honor to this bride, who, as Lila Clifford, was born and raised here, and who, after moving to Arrowwood with her parents, has returned as Mrs. Ivan L. Montgomery to make her home here. An interesting program was given; piano solo by Miss Ruth Brown, and Miss Adelle Hale of Calgary, a violin solo by Mrs. H. B. Stitt accompanied by Miss Ruth Brown, a solo by Joy Treacy accompanied by her sister, Miss Ruth Treacy, a vocal solo by Mrs. Frank Treacy, accompanied by Mrs. Stitt, and vocal solos by Mrs. H. D. Brown were given. Betty Lou Schaefer of Tulsa and Miss June Clifford of Arrowwood, also accompanied by Miss Ruth Brown sang solos.

With a short talk, Mrs. E. J. Bell did honor to the bride, and presented her with the basket of gifts which were brought in by the twins, Mr. Raymond Law as bride, and Miss Debra Nobrega as groom. Mrs. Stitt played the wedding march. Very beautiful and useful gifts were given for which Mrs. Montgomery voiced her appreciation. Then a lunch was served and a social hour enjoyed. The basket was decorated by Mrs. C. Christensen with natural flowers and was very beautiful. In behalf of the committee, Mesdames M. M. Moffat, J. Douglas, E. J. Bell, E. J. Snyder, L. M. Clark, P. Thew and H. Thew, Mrs. Montgomery was presented with an autograph album containing "Advice to the Bride" and signed by all the ladies and young girls present. Mrs. A. A. An indoor program commenced at 10 o'clock and continued until 12. Long tables were set and lunch was served from 12 until 2 o'clock. The afternoon program consisted of races, a treasure hunt, and a soft ball game. A stand, selling hot dogs, chocolate bars and cold drinks, operated throughout the day. A good crowd was in attendance and the picnic was considered a complete success. The dance commencing at 9:30 with the Rosemary orchestra supplying the music was an equal success.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue of the Recorder, an article appeared reporting the death of Mr. Jack Morton, of the Glouchter district, to a Calgary Hospital, following a serious accident at the Calgary Stampede. Following publication, we learned that our source of information had been incorrect, whereupon a letter to the Editor of the Holy Cross Hospital was promptly written. We are pleased to pass the information on to our readers that Mr. Morton has recovered sufficiently from his injuries to have been released from the hospital on July 28th. However, he is still under the care of Dr. Francis of Calgary, who attended him through his illness.

Chapman: (to small boy) "What is your name, my boy?"

Boy: "Bill, sir."

"And how did you get that name?"

"My father says I came on the first of the month with the rest of the bills, sir."

A good editor is one who has never made a mistake, who never has offended anyone, who is always right, who can ride two horses at the same time, who straddles the fence with both feet to the ground, who always says the right thing at the right time, who always picks the right horse, who always picks the right politician to win, who never has to apologize, who has no enemies, and who has words of prestige with all classes, creeds and races. That is all an editor has to do to be rated a good editor—and there has never been a good one.—Baltimore Enterprise.

Quest: "Waitress, what's wrong with these eggs?"

Mr. B. H. Edwards was a business visitor to Brooks on Saturday.

Mrs. Allan Tule of Calgary is a visitor in Bassano.

A new member was added to the staff of the local bank last week, when Hugh Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Schon of the Dam, was made a "teller" member of the staff. This makes six employees in the local branch.
